K. David Weidner, Ph.D. is the Co-founder and President of Capital City Technical Consulting, Inc. (CCTC), a Washington, DC based Consultancy Company that specializes in solutions for international and domestic education and health-care industries.

Dr. Weidner has over 26 years of experience in the information-education technology industry. He has been a classroom teacher, school district central office administrator, university lecturer, project manager, organizational developer, and private-business owner. Dr. Weidner specializes in the use of technology for the improvement of systems, personnel, organizations, education and learning.

Dr. Weidner has consulted with Ministries of Education in China, Great Britain, Germany, Spain, Chile, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Nicaragua, Uganda, Russia, Finland, Thailand, Japan, Singapore, South Africa, Ethiopia, Canada, and the United States. Most recently, his projects have been focused on quality school improvement and reform through the use of information technology.

Dr. Weidner has served as a Senior Consultant to the Department of Education in England, to promote the UK's International Strategy. He has also directed USAID projects on language learning and curriculum development/collaboration using ICT. Recently, he worked with the Hawai'i Institute for Marine Biology-University of Hawai'i in conjunction with NOAA and the Hawai'i Department of Education to develop a Marine Science Curriculum for grades 3-5. He regularly consults in multi-lingual/cultural environments and enjoys collaborating and connecting with educators around the globe.

To continue his work with science and education in Hawai'i, Dr. Weidner works with NOAA to construct a strategic initiatives around environmental literacy. These initiatives support NOAA's mission for an environmentally literate society and integrates the work that Dr. Weidner has accomplished.

The Hawai'i Department of Education has recently asked Dr. Weidner to serve as the evaluator for the Kauai Complex Area Mathematics and Science Partnership (KSTEM) Grant. This grant will work with a cohort of teachers to enhance their knowledge in mathematics, science, and career/technical education. Dr. Weidner will be evaluating the process and the grant to ensure that the deliverables are achieved.

In September 2009, Capital City Technical Consulting, Inc. was awarded a competitively bid federal contract to conduct a Strategic Positioning Needs Assessment for NOAA Education Products and Services in the Pacific. This projects focuses on aligning NOAA science with Hawai'i Benchmark Standards and developing a 2D/3D web delivery prototype strategy.

Dr. Weidner brings his expertise to the Biotech/Pharma/Medical Device Division of CCTC in assisting Biotech, CRO, and Industry Related Consulting organizations on the emerging uses of technologies, group dynamics, leadership, professional development, project management, team-facilitation, and organizational planning. Dr. Weidner is a certified MBTI® Practitioner and uses the MBTI® for facilitation, project management, leadership development, and team building.

Dr. Weidner graduated with a Bachelors Degree in Elementary Education from Wittenberg University (Springfield, OH) in 1983, a Masters Degree in Public School Administration from the University of Dayton (Dayton, OH) in 1986 and a Ph.D. in Educational Administration and Information Technology from The Pennsylvania State University (University Park, PA) in 1996.
